Commandery Decides On Long Beach Trip

Knights Templar of Glendale completed plans for an official visit to Long Beach commandery, to take place on the night of June 30, at their regular session at the Masonic temple last night. Before the meeting Templars and their wives enjoyed a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Glendale knights and their wives will go to Long Beach aboard a special Pacific Electric train. At the beach city the women will be entertained by wives of Long Beach Templars at a luncheon. Officers of Glendale commandery will confer degree work on a large class of Long Beach candidates. Oscar E. Von Oven presided at the meeting last night.

LEGAL LIGHTS IN MONKEY DEFENSE

Well Known Lawyers Hurry To Protect School Man Who Defies State

DAYTON, Tenn., June 23.—"Dayton is not so bad as I have been led to believe. I find you have a postoffice here, a railroad and likewise a depot."

Thus Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer of Chicago, jocularly declared his first impressions of the city which is to be the setting for the "battle of the century" between fundamentalists and evolutionists, when he arrived here today for a conference with his associates in the forthcoming trial of John T. Scopes.

Great crowds gathered around Darrow's automobile and traffic was tied up for thirty minutes or more.

Big Counsel Array
John L. Godsey, senior counsel for Scopes, announced shortly after Darrow's arrival that Dudley Field Malone and Bainbridge Colby, who also are to assist in the defense of Scopes, will arrive tomorrow or next day.

At a quiet conference to be held here, these attorneys will lay definite plans for the defense of the young professor who is agreed to be the goat in testing Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

Woman Obtains Second Divorce From Husband

CHICAGO, June 23.—Mrs. Marguerite Ives Dilg, well-known sports woman, today was granted her second divorce from William G. Dilg, president of the Isaac Walton League of America. Mrs. Dilg charged cruelty and her husband, in a cross bill, made the same charge against her, supplementing it by naming Harry Berry of New York and a New Zealander with whom he claimed Mrs. Dilg had had violent love affairs. The Dilgs were married in 1903. Eleven years later Mrs. Dilg obtained a divorce and married Edward T. McLaughlin, a New York attorney. She divorced him in 1915 and remarried Dilg.

State Realty Official Is To Address Board

Robert A. Swink, past president of the Pasadena Realty board, will speak on "The Requirement and Advantages of the Real Estate Profession" at the regular meeting of the Glendale board tomorrow noon at the Egyptian Village cafe. Swink, now vice-president of the California Real Estate association, is one of the leading realtors of the state.

Los Angeles Boy Is Bitten By Tarantula

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Branlie Delgrade, 18-year-old Los Angeles youth, was rushed to a hospital today in a dying condition after he had been bitten by a tarantula. The tarantula crawled up the boy's trouser leg and bit him. Shortly afterward Delgrade became delirious.

PEACHES SELL WELL

MACON, Ga., June 23.—Many middle Georgia peach growers are selling their crops at $2 to $2.75 a crate unpicked. The prices for Carmens are holding up well, ranging from $3 to $4 a crate picked. The crop is expected to be around 10,000 tons as compared with 16,000 last year.

Sunset Club Is Interested By Birthday Plans

Interest in The Glendale Evening News Sunset Club will be revived Saturday, when Mrs. Della R. Stone will celebrate her 87th birthday at the home of her son, H. J. Stone, 446 West Broadway. Members of the club have been invited to enjoy an informal affair with Mrs. Stone from 2 to 5 o'clock. Mrs. Stone was among the first members of the club and has attended all but one meeting since the club started. She is most interested in keeping the old people of the club together and is hoping that a large company will be at her birthday party Saturday.

Coolidge On Vacation But No Fishing, Golf

sense of isolation which you can get in no other way. The president does not profess to be a deep water sailor, so his excursions this summer into Massachusetts bay are likely to be short ones, with no venturing outside the hook of Cape Cod.

The north shore of Massachusetts is noted for its social activities and its country clubs, but, according to all the information which can be gleaned at the White House, the Coolidges will participate but little if any in the annual summer festivities.

No Social Events
Mrs. Coolidge may have a few intimate friends stop over for tea in the afternoon, but as she is not taking either of her two social secretaries along, the inference is plain.

No saddle horse is being taken to Swampscott for the president and up to the present time there have been no arrangements to transship his electric horse which he sometimes rides for exercise. Only pressing public matters will be brought to the attention of Mr. Coolidge during the vacation period. He is not expected to visit the executive offices in Lynn more than once or twice during the summer, so the prospect before him is much to his liking—plenty of time for repose, quiet reflection and contemplation.

EX-MAYOR WILL SING FOR LEGION

Merchants' Exposition Will Hear Solos By Spencer Robinson Tonight

The feature of tonight's program by the American Legion at the Merchants' exposition will be vocal solos by Spencer Robinson, former Glendale mayor and noted for his splendid tenor voice. Robinson will sing "Mother of Mine" by Tours and "An Irish Lullaby" by Bartlett.

The contribution to the evening by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion will be vocal solos by Oma Baffett, coloratura soprano, known to all Los Angeles music lovers.

The parade early this afternoon was one of the main events of the week. Those taking part met at the home of Mrs. Alice Clayton to receive their costumes.

Another musical event tonight will be the saxophone solos by Clarence Talbott. Talbott will be accompanied by Miss J. Fathead. The young man is a pupil of Miss Katherine Thompson.

Pupils from the Emerson School of Self-Expression are in charge of the program. An Egyptian dance number will be one of the selections by the Jewel City orchestra of Ted Campbell.

Shepherd Case Nears Being Given To Jury

rect examination of William S. Stewart, chief of his counsel.

"You are charged here with administering various forms of poison," Stewart intoned in a loud, clear voice. "Did you administer poison?"

"I did not," Shepherd replied steadily.

Again and again as the attorney went slowly through the various charges in the indictment came the ringing reply:

"I did not."

This constituted the burden of the direct testimony, a simple affirmation of his previous statements that he had not conspired to obtain William Nelson McClintock's fortune by his death, had not inoculated him with typhoid germs and had, when the boy was stricken with the disease, done everything within his power to bring him back to health.

Cross Examined
Then Stewart turned the witness over for the dreaded cross-examination of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

It soon became apparent that Crowe's questioning was directed to establishing his contention that Shepherd, during the greater part of his life had been dependent upon others for support.

Until Crowe had traced through Shepherd's life to the time of the drawing of young McClintock's will, however, the cross fire of question and answer went on uninterrupted.

The handling to Shepherd of a memorandum from which the will was drawn was the signal for the first outburst of objections. Stewart was on his feet like a flash and he fought bitterly with every artifice at his command to prevent anything regarding the will from being read into the record. Time and again he entered objections to Crowe's questions until Crowe apparently swept off his feet by the onslaught, turned from the will to Isabelle Pope, Billy's fiancée, and the storm subsided.

CRISIS FEARED IN MEXICAN RELATIONS

Action of Ambassador May Precipitate Trouble, Is Washington Talk

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—If Ambassador Sheffield returns to his post in Mexico City it may be only for a short while.

For the question has been raised whether he is persona grata any longer to the Mexican government. The Mexicans blame Sheffield for the entire change of policy on the part of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg from one of silent co-operation to open threats of withdrawal of recognition.

Sheffield, on the other hand, is said to take the position that his usefulness as ambassador would have ceased anyhow if he had not persuaded the American government to make a public demonstration of its concern over the way things have been going in Mexico.

The facts which prompted the American government to issue its statement of warning to Mexico are not yet available to the public nor does it appear that members of the Senate foreign relations committee are closely informed. It is known that Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, while declining to discuss the matter, has grave doubts as to the wisdom of the step taken by the American government in publicly threatening Mexico.

Parallels Episode
If congress had been in session, there is little doubt that the matter would have been threshed out in the Senate foreign relations committee if not in open debate in the senate. The present episode has a parallel in the policy pursued by President Taft and Secretary Knox on the return of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson to Washington.

When followed by a military demonstration in Texas and it was not long after that the situation became worse inside Mexico and the American government found itself face to face with a real crisis.

The warning of the American government was not intended to assist in bringing about a disintegration of the administration of President Calles but some of his supporters are insisting that any weakening of faith in his government from the outside has a disturbing effect and leads revolutionary elements to hope for passive acquiescence in smuggling of arms across the border and other activity against the Calles government.

Will Suppress Plots
The American government, however, is ready to meet that situation as it arises, showing the Calles administration that it will permit no revolutionary plots to be operated from this side of the border.

One of the major complications in the Mexican tangle is the fact that Great Britain has broken diplomatic relations with the Mexican government and the American ambassador has been placed in charge of British interests. This makes it all the more difficult for the American ambassador. It is said that some of his difficulty with the Mexicans is his refusal to accede to their requests on behalf of British interests. The Mexicans have been told that they must look after all foreign interests equally well and that the United States is merely fulfilling a traditional obligation in preventing complications between Mexico and the powers of Europe.

French Deputies Stage Regular Battle Royal

play and the historic chamber resounded to the sound of blows, screams and curses.

The row started when Deputy Doret, the Communist leader, answered the premier in defense of the communists.

Slaps His Face
Colonel Picot, a veteran of the war and leader of the conservatives, suddenly leaped upon the dais and slapped Doret's face.

Instantly the chamber was in an uproar. Twenty Communist members rushed to defense of Doret and the battle was on.

Even the galleries joined in the general pandemonium, screaming imprecations and advice to the warriors on the floor.

It was a battle royal for fifteen minutes. Doret to the place of ushers and attendants, the members fought and scratched each other until additional police power was summoned and then by dint of hard efforts, the ushers succeeded in separating the contestants.

The sitting was immediately suspended.

The session was marked with disorder throughout but it was not until Doret shouted: "Yes, we are with Soviet Russia and against your capitalists' warfare" that the riot began.

While most of the fighting was of the rough and tumble variety, M. Franklin Bouillon and the Communist member Clamamus put on a really scientific exhibition. They paired off and boxed.

WILLIAM'S DRYGOODS STORE

Phone - Glendale 266 ~ Brand and Broadway

HONEST, Folks—Ruffled Curtains, especially for bedrooms, are fast coming into popularity. Of course, for some time back they have been used, here and there, but you will find that before another year rolls around a home without them will be conspicuous.

Heretofore, the only way one could have ruffled curtains, that is, in a quality and style that pleased, was to either turn the home into a curtain factory and "make your own," or hire them made at a cost of $1.50 to $2.50 per pair.

Quite recently in Boston, Mass., another factory for the manufacture of Ruffled Curtains and Bed Spreads was established by men with unlimited capital, as well as a keen sense of color and style, with the result that we can now obtain the most beautiful, soft, pleasing colors in "ready-made" curtains at from

WITNESS MARRIES, TRIAL IS DROPPED

Glendale Clothier Goes On Honeymoon; His Honor Dismisses Charge

When Sidney Whitesman, Glendale clothier, was married last Sunday and left for Catalina island on his honeymoon, it was a lucky day for Okey Meadows, Hollywood.

Meadows appeared before Police Judge F. H. Lowe this morning for trial on a charge of obtaining merchandise under false pretenses. A jury venire was summoned. Rush Meadows, his son, was in court to defend him. But the complaining witness, Whitesman, who swore to the original complaint, was on his honeymoon. The case was dismissed by Judge Lowe.

The trial was continued a number of times. The last delay was caused by the illness of the defendant, who had returned the day previous from Mexico, according to Attorney Meadows.

Twice Indicted
Rush Meadows is under two federal indictments. One charges him with conspiring with five others to alter and forge stolen Liberty bonds, and the other is a narcotic indictment returned against him alone. He has been granted a continuance by Federal Judge Paul McCormick until June 29 in which to plead to the two indictments. He is at liberty under $45,000 bond.

Meadows was also charged with practicing law in Los Angeles county without a license. That, however, did not disbar him from practice in the local police court. He had arranged with an associate, it was reported here today, to represent his father if the case had been sent to superior court.

State Law Attacked
Briefs will be filed with Judge Lowe within the next few days by Rush Meadows and the state labor bureau in connection with the trial of the elder Meadows on a charge of violation of the state labor laws. It is charged that he failed to pay for labor performed at a "tile factory" on South San Fernando road.

Rush Meadows, defending his father, attacked the constitutionality of the state labor law, arguing that it provides for imprisonment for debt.

Elect Fred W. Sargent To High Rail Position

NEW YORK, June 23.—Fred W. Sargent was elected president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, and president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad, both of which offices were made vacant by the resignation of William H. Finlay. The election of Sargent was announced soon after the board of directors, meeting here today, had accepted Mr. Finlay's resignation. Marvin Hughitt, chairman of the C. & N. W. Co., also resigned. This vacancy was not filled as the directors voted to abolish the office.

Yacht Brings Baggage, Coolidge, On Train Trip

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 23.—Carrying the domestic personnel of the summer White House, the presidential yacht Mayflower arrived off here today. The Mayflower was met off Boston light by a navy tug which accompanied her into port and aided in the transfer of the baggage from the Mayflower. President Coolidge and his official family are due here tomorrow morning from Washington by special train.

Club Members Thank News For Publicity

Members of the Parliamentary Law club of Glendale express their appreciation for the publicity given, the club by The Glendale Evening News in the following letter, sent by Mrs. Hugh A. Maron, corresponding secretary:

"The members of the Parliamentary Law club of Glendale wish to express their appreciation to you and your very able staff of co-workers for the cooperation and publicity you have given them through your paper the past year.

"We want especially to thank you for permitting Miss Sinks to come to us on different occasions. We, too, would like to thank Miss Sinks personally for her instructive and helpful talks given before the club."

'We'll Keep Morocco,' Is Painleve's Slogan

PARIS, June 23.—France's Moroccan policy will be one of steel backed by a grim determination to control territory over which it claims sovereignty.

"France has no intention of evacuating Morocco and leaving Abdel Krim to pursue his reign of terror," Premier Painleve told the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon. "France will continue to fight for territory which international treaties have allotted to her."

RAILWAY PROTESTS

NOGALES, Ariz., June 23.—The Southern Pacific railway of Mexico has protested to the Mexican government against attacks made on its stations and trains by Mexicans in the state of Sinaloa, according to word here today. The protests were made by J. M. Small, railway superintendent.

A special tax on vacant building lots is proposed in Madrid, Spain.

FAMILY TO TOUR THROUGH EUROPE

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Toll and Sons Plan Summer Trip Over Atlantic

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll and sons Maynard and Carroll of 415 Kenneth road, who will leave Friday noon for New York, are anticipating a summer trip that will take them across the Atlantic ocean for foreign travel. They will go east by the Santa Fe, and will sail from New York July 2 on the steamship Ohio of the Royal Mail line. Landing in Cherbourg, France, they will go to Paris. It is their plan to enjoy motor trips about Paris and from there to places of interest in other parts of the country. Later they will motor to Italy into Switzerland and on into Germany to Berlin. It is their intention to visit several places of interest in Germany and, upon their departure, sail down the Rhine to Belgium and Holland.

Motor in England
The remainder of their itinerary includes crossing the English channel to the British isles the first week in August. They will enjoy England by motor. Toll and his son Maynard, the latter having to return to his junior work at the University of California, Berkeley, will sail August 22 on the steamship Corinthia for home.

Mrs. Toll and Carroll will remain in London and take a trip to Ireland. They will sail for home September 24, on the steamship George Washington. Upon arriving in New York they will spend a week or more attending the theatres and return to their Glendale home at the end of October. During their absence their foothill home will remain open in charge of another son, Gerald Toll. Mrs. Toll's sister, Miss Beresford Joy of Los Angeles, and the staff of servants.

For selling Chinese eggs as Irish, a Liverpool grocer was fined $50 in court.

ATWATER RESIDENTS WANT CROSSING OPEN

Prompt Action on Gardena Avenue Will Be Sought by Improvement Body; Protest Removal of Pastor

Immediate reopening of Gardena crossing over the Pacific Electric right-of-way at Glendale boulevard will be sought by the Atwater Improvement association, that body voted last night. Other crossings over the street car tracks in the Atwater district will be sought also.

The backing of Glendale will be solicited by the Atwater residents in seeking the reopening of Gardena avenue, as this thoroughfare lies within the Glendale city limits. One request from the Glendale City Council for the reopening of the street has already been turned down by the State Railroad commission. Gardena crossing was closed by the Pacific Electric several months ago at the time the temporary right-of-way expired. Since that time the crossing has been closed and rendered impassable by large railroad timbers.

C. E. Michael, chairman of the transportation board of the improvement association, will also seek the aid of Los Angeles police authorities, the auto club and the Los Angeles Traffic commission in the fight for more crossings. Police Chief Heath will be asked to urge additional crossings as a traffic safety measure. It is understood that the traffic commission will be solidly behind any request for more crossings.

Protest Change In Pastor

An unofficial announcement that Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor of the Neighborhood Christian church in the Atwater district, is to be moved to some other field of work by the Los Angeles Board of Missions of the Christian church brought the unanimous protest of members of the Atwater Improvement association last night. The improvement body voted to ask for retention of Rev. Utter as pastor of the Atwater church. A resolution to this effect will be forwarded to the mission board.

Rev. Utter operates under the mission board in the establishment of new churches. Recently he was away from Atwater Park for a month while establishing a new congregation at Maywood.

Since first opening the Atwater parish Rev. Utter has been a foremost civic worker. The fine new church structure on Edenhurst avenue is a monument to his work. Recently Rev. Utter has been active in efforts to get a Boy Scout clubhouse for Atwater youngsters and has offered property owned by the mission board as a site for the clubhouse. The improvement association met at the Christian church last night. President Arthur M. Gilman presiding.

Hearing On School Site

The Los Angeles Board of Education heard the appeal of representatives of fifteen associations of the Park avenue, Atwater and Ivanhoe Hills district for a new high school to serve children of the section, last night. The committee appeared before the board at its meeting, requesting that a site in the Ivanhoe district be selected at once and that a school be erected as soon as possible. The request was taken under advisement without any further action.

An automobile that travels on land or swims in water has been invented.

COOLIDGE Praised AT WOMAN'S CLUB

President And Hoover Win Laudation Of District Attorney In Talk

"There has never been any president of the United States who has had such stupendous financial problems to handle as has President Coolidge and he has handled them in such a way that the people have felt them but slightly," declared United States District Attorney S. W. McNabb, yesterday, in an address before the Glendale Republican Women's Study club meeting at Central Christian church.

McNabb spoke on the present administration in Washington, D. C., and as a leading California Republican he paid high tribute to President Coolidge and his program of saving "The government of the United States as a business institution is the greatest business institution in the world, and we have a fine man at the head of it," he said.

Praised with President Coolidge was Herbert Hoover, "the greatest conservationist and executive in the world today."

Budget Plan Lauded
During his talk McNabb lauded the budget system of the United States government, and spoke favorably of less government control and more state control. He declared that great progress is being made in the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. The club women were particularly interested in his stand for the party form of government.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, president, presided. Mrs. Harry Greenwalt led in the drill on the federal constitution. Mrs. W. E. Evans, program chairman, introduced McNabb. Vocal selections were given by Edith Sinclair Lemon, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Ripley. The club will suspend activity for the summer, meeting again in September.

Attend Convention
Club officers and members, numbering eighteen, went to Los Angeles today to attend the Republican Women's Federation convention.

The membership of the local club was brought up past the 100 mark yesterday, by the addition of the following names to the roll: Mesdames Charles H. Toll, Sidney Reeve, Leslie Egan, John Eames, A. L. Kilgore, M. L. Tigh, Warren Roberts, Roy Kent, A. R. Eastman, H. Park Arnold, C. H. Temple, Lloyd Wilson, C. D. Lusby, W. B. Nelson, R. W. Meeker, H. D. Goss, Burkett, Goss, Helen Sawyer, C. O. Pulliam, Grace B. Anderson, W. W. Stevenson, Emma Holler, Hal A. Curtis, Miss Ellen Williams and Dr. Leah Purkett.

WOLF OF LA SALLE LOSES BAIL BOND

Government Seizes $10,000 Property As Forfeit By Worthington's Flight

Property valued at $10,000, posted as a bond to cover the $5000 bail required by the federal government of John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of La Salle street," who fled from the Glendale sanitarium on June 10, has been declared forfeited by Federal Judge Cliffe of Chicago, according to word received here. The property bond was posted by William F. Curran and Frederick A. Glyter. Worthington is at a mud bath retreat at Punta Banda, near Ensenada, Lower California. His condition now is so serious that he cannot be moved for several weeks, according to word received from the southern resort. Extradition proceedings will probably be halted because of that, it is said. Worthington was convicted two years ago in Chicago of using the mails to defraud and was sentenced to serve three years in Leavenworth penitentiary. He won a stay of execution on the plea that he was critically ill and came to Glendale two months ago, where he entered the sanitarium. Was Thought Dying
For a time he was believed to be dying, but on the day that he was driven away in a taxicab accompanied by his daughter, Miss Alice Worthington, he was able to walk a short distance, and carried with him a heavy suitcase of his belongings from the sanitarium. He told justice agents yesterday at Punta Banda that he had not plotted to escape, but that he merely went to the Mexican town to take advantage of mud baths in the vicinity. Worthington has the reputation of being one of the cleverest confidence men in the country, and recently was accused by federal agents in Los Angeles of having been connected with the theft and attempted disposal of $2,500,000 in bonds taken from the St. Louis postoffice.

Want Him Back
A demand for the immediate return of Worthington to Chicago despite his physical condition has been dispatched to Los Angeles by District Attorney Edwin A. Olson, according to word received from the east today. "If he was well enough to leave the sanitarium, he is well enough to return to Chicago," Olson declared.

Beauties! Which One Would YOU Choose?

Atlantic City is preparing to stage the annual national beauty contest. Here is a sextet of former competitors and prize-winners, all of whom are entered in the contest for 1925 honors: Left to right, RUTH MALCOLMSON, Philadelphia, 1924 "Miss America"; BEATRICE ROBERTS, "Miss Manhattan"; KATHERINE CAMPBELL, 1922-23 "Miss America"; FAY LAMPHIER, "Miss Santa Cruz"; MARGARET LEIGH, "Miss Chicago"; LILLIAN KNIGHT, "Miss Los Angeles."

GLENDALE WOMEN ATTEND CONCLAVE

Eighteen Members Of Local Republican Study Club Go To Los Angeles

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. Harry Greenwalt and other prominent Republican women of Glendale participated today with other California Republican women in an historical event in women's party activity, the all-day convention of the Republican Women's Federation of California, southern division, at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles. It was an affair unprecedented in the annals of partisan politics.

Glendale Republican Women's study club was represented by eighteen members, headed by Mrs. Richardson, president. Mrs. W. E. Evans was a member of the constitution and by-laws committee. The convention assembled at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Florence Collins, recognized as dean of California Republican women, presided over the luncheon at noon. The luncheon hour was featured by a brilliant style show. Addresses were made later by Major Walter K. Tuller, Attorney Mendel Silberberg, Senator Samuel Shortridge, Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Los Angeles Republican County Central committee, and Chief Deputy District Attorney Burton Pitts.

Y. L. I. Officers For Coming Year Elected

Election of officers of Glendale Y. L. I. was held last night at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Frank Salmacia, 361 West California avenue. Officers elected were: Miss Henrietta Meek, president; Mrs. Frank H. Clark, Jr., past president; Miss Gertrude Campbell, first vice-president; Miss Ernestine Garneau, second vice-president; Miss Henrietta Ferrow, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Callahan, financial secretary; Miss Myrtle Sprangers, treasurer. Miss Meek was elected delegate to attend the national Y. L. I. convention at Yosemite July 26 to August 2. Mrs. Paul Machtoft was elected alternate. Plans were made for the benefit card party which will be held tomorrow night at Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 330 East Lomita avenue. Tables will be arranged for bridge, five-hundred and cootie with prizes for the winners. The committee in charge is: Misses Henrietta Meek, Mary Margaret Chapman, Eva Brehme, Margaret Callahan, Helen Godair and Myrtle Sprangers. The next meeting of the organization will be held July 9. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

PACKER MUST PAY

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Sentence of four months in jail and a fine of $7500 imposed on Alexander B. Stewart, wealthy head of a Long Beach packing company, will stand, unless reversed by the United States circuit court, Federal Judge Paul McCormick declared. The judge refused to set aside the verdict in the case after the twelve jurors signed affidavits that when they convicted Stewart they thought they were voting on dry law charges and not custom law violations.

YARN MILLS SLOW UP

GASTONIA, N. C., June 23.—Twelve yarn mills here will go on a part time schedule this week.

Berkeley Class Views Forest Lawn Scenes

Before leaving for San Diego particularly to study the landscape architecture of Balboa park, Professor John W. Gregg of the University of California at Berkeley, accompanied by his assistant and ten students of his class of landscape architecture at the university, devoted several hours to a close study of the landscaping and architecture at Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale.

Professor Gregg explained that he arranged for this group of graduates of his class to inspect Forest Lawn because of the unique manner in which the architecture of the buildings, the landscaping of the great park and the ornamentation throughout are being developed to make of this "garden of memories" the most modern resting place for the beloved dead as well as a park of beauty and art for the enjoyment of the living. The students were taken to Pasadena and also to the Palos Verdes estates before proceeding south to complete their studies of Southern California's landscape architecture.

RAILWAY BUYS BUSES

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—The Kansas City Railway Co. has purchased sixty-one buses to supplement street railway service. It is expected the company will be out of the hands of the receiver by October 1.

Yosemite Motor Trip Begun By Glendalians

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Warner, daughter Betty and son Burnham, 320 East Chestnut street, left today by motor for a vacation trip to Yosemite, the Redwood highway and other places of interest in the north. They will be gone six weeks. Miss Warner is a student at the University of California, southern branch, while her brother has just graduated from Glendale Union High school.

Swim, Picnic, Tennis, Women's Club Events

Activities of the Women's Athletic club are continuing through the summer. On Friday morning club members are to have a swimming party at the Y. W. C. A. in Pasadena. They will meet at 11 o'clock. Saturday there will be a picnic for club members and their families in Brookside park, Pasadena. Swimming and tennis will be enjoyed in the afternoon before the picnic dinner.

SOUTHERN CROPS BOOM

NEW ORLEANS, June 23.—Rains in the sugar and rice districts have supplied those crops with much needed moisture, and the outlook for them is the best in years. Cotton in Louisiana and Mississippi also was greatly benefited.

EXPEND $375,000 ON NEW PHONES

Big Construction Program Is Planned In Glendale; 1600 Houses Wired

The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. is rushing work on its 1925 construction program in Glendale, which calls for a total expenditure of $375,000 and will provide facilities for 4400 new telephones. Manager Fred Deal said today. As a result of the growth and consequent telephone demands in Glendale, the present central office switchboard requires additions costing $110,000, Deal pointed out.

"This new equipment is of the latest type and will fit in with use," Deal said, "and thus will insure that adequate and comprehensive service is rendered to all subscribers. Other work the company has under way or partially completed in Glendale consists of the laying of underground clay tile, known in the telephone man's parlance as conduit, and the installation of additional circuits to nearby towns and cities.

Use Lots of Wire
"The underground and overhead cable extensions are in both the northern and southern parts of the city and on East Broadway. This work involves the placing of more than 52,000,000 feet of wire.

"The 1925 construction program will continue to prepare the local system for a marked rate of growth over a period of years. The new central office equipment which is being installed in a part of the space made available by the new addition to the building is one of the large items of expenditure in this year's program. The building addition erected last year considerably more than doubled the size of our structure.

"The largest item of expenditure is for the above mentioned 52,000,000 feet of wire in cables, the tile conduit and the other outside plant work. It is estimated that this extension work will cost more than $200,000.

"The station equipment, which means the apparatus placed upon the premises of the subscriber, is the smallest item upon the program, though it will cost a total of $65,000.

"There are now 7800 telephones in Glendale, which is 1600 more than a year ago."

Music Club Members Will Hear Artists

Glendale Music club members have been invited to the program to be given at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard, under the auspices of the Artists' section. Miss Gertrude Cleophas, chairman, states the following artists will appear: Keamoku Louis, baritone; Mrs. Harry McMullin, soprano; Enona Hopkins, harpist; and Miss Christine Edwards, violinist.

SUGAR PRICES ADVANCE

WHEN YOU HAVE DONE—

- Your best you have done all that is required of you.
- A good turn you have made two people happy—yourself and one other.
- An honest day's work you need not fear the inspector.
- Something dishonorable you may expect to pay the costs eventually.
- A small trick be big enough to apologize.

RED CROSS CONTINUES WAR WORK

There is an impression in some quarters that the American Red Cross is discontinuing its work for ex-service men and women and their families. This is not the case, at all. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, the Red Cross expended nationally $1,735,825 in its work for disabled service men, primarily to men in hospitals, but including the maintenance of a Red Cross Liaison service to assist men in securing their compensation rights. This was in addition to approximately $2,000,000 spent by the chapters for ex-service men and their families.

The Red Cross is so far from abandoning its work for the veterans of the world war that this work takes precedence over even disaster relief. During the past three years the American Red Cross has contributed $214,000 to the American Legion to enable that organization to maintain its rehabilitation service, but this assistance terminated last December in accordance with an agreement reached by both organizations.

WHAT DO COLLEGES TEACH?

A certain newspaper claims that the charge that college students are "red" and "pink" in considerable numbers is all bosh. "What is on the undergraduate's mind?" this paper asks, and then goes on to answer: "Well, football and track and baseball and so on occupy a large share of his attention. Then there are girls and shows and dances and things like that. Maybe, at times, even his studies come in for a little notice."

This is true enough, and while the average college student is not concerning himself with reforming the world, yet he is forming habits at college and absorbing principles that will stay with him all his life. And it is very easily proved that there are colleges who send their students out into the world with radical views in regard to government and religion. Because a graduate does not immediately start to overthrow the government on commencement day is no sign that he has not imbibed the wrong kind of learning.

HONORING THE PRESIDENT

Twenty leading colleges and universities of America sought to honor President Coolidge on their respective commencement days by conferring academic degrees upon him. But—the honor was contingent upon the president's appearance in person to receive the degree. It would appear that these schools were not so eager to honor the president as they were to advertise themselves, to attract attention by having the president attend their commencement exercises, otherwise they would have conferred the degree anyway. The string tied to the offer took away any honor that may have been attached to it. President Coolidge is half a dozen times an LL. D. anyway and it is presumed that he was not greatly excited about being honored when he would have been the one to confer the honor. At least he refused all twenty offers.

AMUNDSEN'S EXPEDITION

Many people belittle the Amundsen expedition and claim that the planting of the Stars and Stripes at the North pole is both unnecessary and unimportant. They may be right, but the future alone can tell whether or not they are. Many an expedition in the past that seemed foolish at the time turned out to be of immense value to the world. Territory once thought to be as worthless as the icebound arctic is today is now ministering to the needs of humanity. At present we cannot see that it really matters what flag, if any, flies in the far north, but we do not know that the North pole will never be a vital strategic point to the nation controlling it. At least let us hope that the day will never come when the urge to explore and the love of adventure die in the hearts of men.

SCHOOL POLICIES

Recently the state of Texas gave $1,000,000, and the people of the town of Lubbock contributed 2,000 acres of prairie land for a college to be designed after the old Spanish missions. The president, Dr. Paul Whitfield Horn, has some unusual ideas in regard to conducting this school which is to open in September, but it is a question whether he will be able to carry them out. He calls his policies "Hornheresies".

There are to be no Greek letter fraternities at Lubbock and no hazing of Freshmen. No one will be summarily expelled for poor scholarship. And there will be no fence around the college to keep out those who wish to enter, but rather there will be steps up to it in order that those may enter who desire to do so.

NOT ALL WHO FAIL ARE FAILURES

The late Senator La Follette will go down in history as one who failed—one who was always on the losing side—yet not all who fail are failures. The mass of the American people believed La Follette wrong in most things, but they admired his sincerity, his devotion to his principles and his fighting qualities. La Follette is dead, he will soon be forgotten, because he accomplished nothing tangible he was not a great success in the sense that he won spectacular victories, yet in the universal scheme of things Robert M. La Follette was far from being a failure. Conservatism tends to grow smug and arrogant without the check of the militant and the extremist, and this check he supplied.

SEE THE FLOWER FARMS

It is so easy to think that the world centers around our own little vine and fig tree. Where nature is so lavish as here we are right in thinking that we live in the garden spot of the world, and yet there are many wonderful and beautiful spots in the state outside of Glendale. Not all can take long tours, but there are many shorter trips that your guests will enjoy. The flower seed farms of Santa Barbara county is a sight never to be forgotten, one vast sweep of brilliant color, and the air heavy with perfume. The fields near Lompoc and Guadalupe are easily accessible from Glendale and are of marvelous beauty. One field of 250 acres in sweetpeas is alone worth the drive.

EDUCATION IN THE HIGHER BRANCHES!

Don't

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Here are some don'ts that may be useful:
Don't grumble, gossip or argue.
Don't offend unnecessarily, don't contend and don't brag.
Don't insinuate, retaliate or exaggerate.
Don't ridicule, disparage or coerce.
Don't haggle, wrangle or use unnecessary words.
Don't misjudge, slander or embarrass.
Don't dissemble, vilify or assail.
Here are some things that Grenville Kleiser says to do:

It is good to praise, to enjoy, to confirm, to approve and to appreciate. We should also serve, reverence, commend, agree and admire.
Every man should resolve to please others as much as possible, to encourage, to sympathize and reciprocate. He should learn to yield, to accede, to help and to recommend.

It pays to esteem, to give, to honor and to stimulate; also to respect, to befriend, gladden and accommodate.
To these may be added to uplift, compliment, strengthen, comfort and inspire.
These may be but platitudes, but they are the sort of things that, if we will learn to do them, will be to our profit.
The mind also may be compared to a garden. There are certain weeds that we should cast out. They are such as pride, envy, impatience, fear, resentment, selfishness.

There are also certain plants that we must carefully cultivate. These are kindness, goodness, love, humility, reverence and righteousness.
Only by close attention to the mind's garden and by careful tilling we shall have fruit and fragrance in our lives.

Horoscope

Good and bad planetary influences may manifest today, according to astrology. Uranus is in benefic aspect and Mars is adverse.

There is an especially favorable sign for all who set out on travels today. Happy experiences and even romances are indicated.

It is a lucky day for aviators who will make new records before the end of the season, although they are warned to be unusually cautious regarding accidents.

Inventions are especially well directed and many marvelous achievements are foretold, particularly in motion pictures.

The seers prophesy that owing to wonderful improvements in the art of photography, money will be lost by producers of motion pictures who will find their films of today old-fashioned tomorrow.

The Moon today enters Leo, a fixed, fiery, masculine sign ruled by the Sun and governing the heart and back.

Owing to the conjunction of the Moon and Mars there may be a strong inclination toward extreme activity, haste and even the sort of positiveness that causes quarrels.

This should be a profitable day for all who are solicitors or canvassers. Promoters should benefit from the stimulating influences.

The lunation of this month indicates discontent among the people regarding matters of minor importance and indifference concerning vital matters.

Hospitals and charitable institutions, especially those devoted to children, should benefit. Many gifts of money may be expected and several large endowments will be made.

Sudden and unexpected troubles in the British colonies are prognosticated by the seers.

Losses in our revenues through frauds and illicit undertakings are foretold and there will be much trouble in law enforcement.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful lest they act rashly in important crises. They will travel in the coming year. Girls will receive proposals of marriage.

Children born on this day may be quick tempered and easily aroused to resentment, but the objects of Leo usually reach the highest positions and they should have a genius for making money.

Today's Poem

FADED LEAVES

The hills are bright with maples yet;
But down the level land
The beech trees rustle in the wind
As dry and brown as sand.

The clouds in bars of rusty red
Along the hill-tops glow,
And in the still, sharp air, the frost
Is like a dream of snow.

The berries of the brier-rose
Have lost their rounded pride;
The bitter-sweet chrysanthemums
Are drooping heavy-eyed.

The cricket grows more friendly now,
The dormouse sly and wise,
Hiding away in the dis grace
Of nature, from men's eyes.

The pigeons in black, wavering lines
Are swinging toward the sun;
And all the wide and withered fields
Proclaim the summer done.

His store of nuts and acorns now
The squirrel hastes to gain,
And sets his house in order for
The winter's dreary reign.

'Tis time to light the evening fire,
To read good books, to sing
The low and lovely songs that breathe
Of the eternal spring.

—Alice Cary.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

To some persons, life is utterly meaningless, but to most it is a great plan, about which nature preaches a never-ending sermon.

It is apparent that according to a man's mental energy is exerted or relaxed, life will either be short and petty, and fleeting, that nothing can possibly happen over which it is to spend emotion.

That nothing really matters, whether it is pleasure or riches, or even fame, and that in whatever way a man may have failed, he cannot have lost much.

Or, on the other hand, life will seem so long, so important, so full of difficulty that we have to plunge into it with our whole soul if we are to obtain a share of its goods, make sure of its prizes, and carry out its plans.

This latter is the common view of life. The former is the transcendental view, which is well expressed by Plato's remark that nothing in human affairs is worthy any great anxiety.

This condition of mind is due, the psychologists tell us, to the intellect having got the upper hand in the domain of consciousness, where, freed from the mere service of the will, it looks upon the phenomena of life objectively, and so cannot fail to gain a clear insight into its vain and futile character.

But in the other condition of mind, will predominates; and the intellect exists only to light it on its way to the attainment of its desires.

More than one philosopher has held that a man is great or small according as he leans to the one or the other of these views of life.

In which direction do you lean?

Who's Who

The recent election of James J. Storrow as president of the Boy Scouts of America marks the first change in the presidency of that body since its foundation. Colin H. Livingstone, who had just retired after fifteen years of service, was one of the founders of the movement.

The new president has been closely identified with the movement for a number of years as a member of the national executive board and as chairman of the region covering the New England states. Storrow is a member of the banking firm of L. Higginson & Co., chairman of the board of the Nash Motors Co., and director in many business corporations.

Along with his many other activities, the new president was chairman of the Boston school board for three years, 1905-1908, and Good Government candidate for mayor of Boston in 1909. Subsequently he was elected to the Boston city council and served as president of the council during the last year of his four-year term.

During the war, as chairman of the Massachusetts committee on public safety, the pioneer organization of its kind in the country, he did outstanding work.

Storrow is a great lover of outdoor life, and several years ago went on a camping trip beginning in the Grand Canyon, in Arizona, and terminating at the Glacier National Park, in Montana. However, his favorite recreation ground has always been the White Mountain region of New Hampshire, in which he has taken annual camping trips for many years.

Timely Views

Legislation at the next session of congress that will make the Hawaiian Islands the strongest military outpost in the world will be urged at the next session of congress by Chairman T. S. Butler of the house naval committee. He made this assertion recently.

Mr. Butler declared that for some time he had thought that the Hawaiian group should be more thoroughly fortified.

"I am still of that opinion," he continued. "The proposal to fortify the islands does not mean I am opposed to the world court or disarmament. I hope these things may be brought about, but I am beginning to doubt whether other nations are in earnest about disarmament. I hope I am wrong."

Mr. Butler said the recent maneuvers had in no way influenced his views as to fortifying the islands.

"For some time it has been my opinion that the Pearl harbor fortifications needed more attention. I want the islands to be made the strongest military outpost in the world. I would build Pearl harbor to make it impregnable. The harbor should be made to hold the whole Pacific fleet, and it should have sufficient submarines, air equipment and coast defense works to keep an attacking fleet away."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

FAILEN ARCHES
The story is told that during the war a colored man, out of funds, walked 50 miles to the recruiting station to enlist. When he got there he was refused because of flat feet. The reason flat feet are considered a disqualifying defect is that they will prevent long marches. It does in a large majority of cases—not only long marches but short ones as well.

However, there is a type of flat feet that is apparently painless and without symptoms. This type is especially common among the negroes.

There are two arches in the feet, the longitudinal arch which extends from the heel to the ball of the foot and is usually known as the instep; and the lateral, or anterior arch, which is across the toes.

The ligaments of these arches may become relaxed so that the arches sag. This condition causes grave trouble with the feet and may cause pains and disturbances throughout the body.

The most frequent causes of fallen arches are body weights that are too heavy for the arches to bear, and improper shoes—too high heels, too pointed toes, etc. Occasionally those who are on their feet a great deal, on hard floors, may suffer from them.

There are different degrees of the disorder: a slight falling means a weak foot and a complete falling results in the "flat" foot.

Babies' feet show no arches. This is due to the fact that the muscles have not been used yet and have not pulled the arches up, and also to the thick pad of fat on the babies' soles.

The prevention of flat feet is the prevention of the causes, correct posture and walking with the feet parallel (this is the right way).

Treatment: The removal of the causes, if possible; certainly reduce, if necessary, and wear proper shoes and exercises which develop the muscles and ligaments, massage, and if necessary, support of the feet by arch supports.

Exercises:
1. The straight position of the feet in walking and standing.
2. Walking on the outer borders of the feet with the toes turned in.

ANSWERED LETTERS

S. E. R.: In the shingled part of your hair—where it appears to be so much lighter than the rest—apply hot henna paste and wait about twenty minutes after each shampoo and the orange shade will tint that of red like the rest of your hair. You can purchase henna powder at any drug store or at the toilet counters of the large department stores.

The uses of cream are as follows: Cleansing cream has no nourishment in it, but it softens the skin and dissolves the soil in the pores, where ordinary washing with soap and water will not do it entirely; a good nourishing cream (one made from fine vegetable oils) cleanses, softens and nourishes the tissues under the skin.

Never use a cream in which there are animal fats on the face or throat. These are heavy and will clog the pores and attract dirt, and it is this combination that will lead to superfluous hair if there is a tendency to it.

Sweet Sixteen: Wear a brassiere or any other kind of bust support until you have attained your full development. It would be wrong for you to attempt to reduce the size of the bust, as you could very easily injure yourself. You will not be out of proportion after you have fully grown up.

Seventeen: The little white pitted formations that have massed on the upper part of your cheeks and eyelids are whiteheads—really imprisoned blackheads. You can remove them by careful picking with a needle, dipped first in some antiseptic solution, and by pressing them

Aviation Club Planned

By Salesman Of Cars

Aviation is more fun than golf, in the opinion of Irving Akers, local automobile salesman, who has spent twelve years flying and still takes to it as a hobby. Also he is convinced there are a lot of men anxious to become acquainted with the aerial sport, who find it difficult to get into the Reserve. As a result he is planning an aviation club for Glendale, members to purchase an aeroplane jointly and devote their Sundays learning to wing their way through the clouds.

"This would be a club entirely for pleasure and study," he said, "and is not a matter of financial advantage for anyone. I've always loved flying since my first lessons and it is surprising to note how many young men here are anxious to take it up."

VISITOR MISSING

YOSEMITE, Cal. June 23.—National park rangers today were scouring the trails and by-ways of Yosemite valley in a search for Frank J. Koeman of San Francisco, missing from Camp Curry for more than a week. Koeman was a photo fan and was last seen leaving Camp Curry with a large camera in his hands. In his suitcase was found a considerable supply of films specially adapted for mountain photography.

SHE WAS SOBER, VERDICT

SACRAMENTO, June 23.—After more than twenty hours of deliberation, the jury in the case of Mrs. Laura Deering, local clubwoman, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, returned a verdict of not guilty. Mrs. Deering, who was arrested after her machine crashed through a suburban store and injured the proprietor, fainted on the witness stand during the final day of the trial.

NEW FALL FURS NOW ON DISPLAY

Fashion Center Gets Early
Shipment; M. J. McKinnon
Goes To New York

M. J. McKinnon, of the Fashion Center, Inc., 202 South Brand boulevard, will leave tomorrow for New York where he will spend five weeks in the purchase of advanced fall fashions. He will go via the northwest route, stopping at Seattle and Spokane, Wash., and Yellowstone National park. En route home he will stop in Chicago and San Francisco.

An advance shipment of fall fur trimmed coats arrived at the Fashion Center, Inc., this morning and for the purpose of stimulating early fall buying they will be offered for sale at 25 per cent off of the regular selling price. Diversified expression of flare types is emphasized in the collection, while novel furs form an interesting feature. The capelet and flared blouse provide jaunty silhouette variations in a coat of brown, needlepoint with brown fox fur trimmings.

In the matter of furs, both the long and flat furs are in evidence, the flat ones being represented by extremely flat varieties like broadtail, caracul and mole. McKinnon today stated that included in his purchase of early fall fashions will be advanced fall wraps, gowns and millinery.

New Coat Shapes
Milady will note with interest that some of the new shades of coats are mouse, a soft shade of gray; Bismarck purple, a deep purple; ash, warm rose; oxblood; wistaria, a shade of lavender; poudre, a French blue; deer, a shade of tan; copen, a light blue and salmon, a deep rose.

Trimming of coats this fall will be with furs of beaver, platinum fox, squirrel, natural wolf, vicuna fox (baby fox), chinchilla and Kolinsky dyed squirrel. Slim silhouettes as well as various modes by Parisian designers are seen for fall coats.

ARMY RECORD CLEAN

BOSTON, June 23.—First Sergeant Victor Dahlquist, Company E, Thirtieth United States Infantry, brought to a close recently his active career of thirty-three years with the army without a single black mark on his record. Officers and men at the army base paid tribute to Dahlquist when Major Frank T. McCabe, of the Thirtieth Infantry, commandant of headquarters detachment at the army base, read the official order of retirement. Sergeant Dahlquist, who is 52, lives in Winthrop.

MAY CHEAT GALLOWS

CHICAGO, June 23.—Bernard Grant, under sentence to be hanged August 24 for his share in the murder of Patrolman Ralph Suders, was stabbed a gash in the left breast which penetrated the lung near the heart and is expected to cause his death.

'ICEBOUND' HERO WON MUCH HONOR

Lexington Players' Leading Man Appeared On Stages
In East And West

Roy Gordon, who is playing the leading role, that of Ben Jordan, in the Lexington Players' production of Owen Davis' "Icebound" at the Playhouse of the Tuesday Afternoon club this week, is an actor of several years' experience.

Before coming to California, about a year ago, he appeared in the New York stage with the Provincetown Players and later was leading man for the Faegan Players, appearing with Paul Kelly and many others well known to New York theatregoers. He recently appeared on one of the Los Angeles stages.

Roy Gordon has a very bright future predicted for him and the role of Ben Jordan should be a big stepping stone towards this success.

BRITISH NOVEL IS BASIS FOR MOVIE

'Mariposa' Furnishes Theme Of Pola Negri Play; 'Kiss
In The Dark' Next

The final showings of the Sidney Olcott-Paramount production, "The Charmer," starring Pola Negri, which was shown for the first time in Glendale at the Gate-way theatre on Sunday, will close its run there today.

The picture is based on the highly successful British novel "Mariposa," by Henry Barlequin, and was adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan.

Tomorrow starts "A Kiss in the Dark," which has a strong cast, including Adolph Menjou and Aileen Pringle.

By Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Assistant Forester L. S. Percey has been given charge of the La Cresenta district in the reorganization of the Los Angeles county fire districts, his territory extending from Arroyo Seco to Newhall pass. Other changes in crews and a realignment of districts was announced by Spence Turner, acting county fire warden, who has arranged to effectively deal with foothill fires this season.

Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale, Assemblyman Sidney Graves, Senator Harry Chamberlin and others will be speakers at a luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Biltmore ballroom to discuss the reorganization problem confronting Southern California before the Commercial Board of Los Angeles. It is probable that a campaign for an initiative measure will be instituted to gain constitutional representation in the Legislature.

A demonstration by 5000 Los Angeles school children will feature this afternoon's program at the Los Angeles Coliseum, given in honor of the American Physical Education association convention here this week. High praises are being sung of the advance made in this state in physical training, as outlined in a speech yesterday by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Wood.

Dr. Otto Brunner is being sought by the sheriff's office, following the death of Mrs. Edna Trovanzana, a Willowbrook matron, upon whom an alleged illegal operation was performed last Saturday.

There will be 1228 midshipmen from Annapolis in Los Angeles for the Fourth of July, it was announced today. They will arrive June 30 aboard the battleships New York, Utah and Arkansas, and depart July 8.

FOUL PLAY HINTED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—A coroner's inquest over the body of Charles M. Woods, millionaire San Francisco business man, returned a verdict that Woods had come to his death "by drowning with a possibility of foul play." Woods' body was found last week in the water at the bottom of a cliff near Mussel rock on the ocean side of the San Francisco peninsula. He had been missing since last Tuesday.

MORE AUTOS SHIPPED

DETROIT, June 23.—The Pere Marquette railroad reports that traffic outbound from Detroit territory has increased fifty-one per cent as compared with this time a year ago while incoming freight has advanced twenty-eight per cent. This is taken to indicate activity in the automobile industry.

'STOP FLIRTING' IS BIG LAUGH MAKER

Christie Comedy At Local House Tells Of Wife's
Cure For Husband

If one wants to spend an afternoon or evening of sheer enjoyment, it can be obtained at the Glendale theatre, where "Stop Flirting," the Christie laughing hit, is being shown for the last time tonight.

It is another of those Christie comedies whose aim and purpose is merely to entertain, not to solve some big social problem or preach some moral doctrine, and the resounding laughter that greeted "Stop Flirting" last night is ample evidence that its mission most agreeably.

It is the naive story of a young bride who is stirred to jealousy by her husband's inability to resist the ladies, and determines to give him some of his own medicine. She invites half a hundred male guests to their country home and then proceeds to keep them always with her.

Husband's Revenge
In desperation the young husband plans a fake disappearance, and the complications that arise from this situation, with the laughable consequences which they produce, are no end of fun and entertainment.

John T. Murray, who has a natural talent for comedy, plays the part of the young husband, while the highly amusing role of the bride is interpreted by Wanda Hawley, who is entirely capable and a constant source of pulchritudinous delight. The rest of the members of the cast, including Hallam Cooley, Jimmie Adams, Ethel Shannon and others, are all splendid comedians, who help appreciably to maintain the speed and liveliness of the picture. Scott Sidney directed.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, June 23.—Petitions are being circulated among property owners along San Fernando road to determine the nature of a proposed improvement, toward which the county has already appropriated $45,000. Widening and paving are expected to get under way some time this summer.

Two truck drivers employed by the Atlas Mined Motor Co., were fined $1 each by Police Judge Watson for violation of a city ordinance that prohibits driving of heavy vehicles over Cypress avenue. The city ordinance was recently upheld in a superior court decision.

Norman Smith, high school graduate of 1925, will leave this week for a point 300 miles north of the Canadian border, where he will be in the employ of a gold mining company.

Burbank Kiwanians last night observed "All Kiwanis night," joining with all of the other 1354 Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States and Canada. The ceremonies were at Eagle Rock, simultaneously with the opening of the international convention at St. Paul.

Lug boxes are being distributed among apricot growers of the San Fernando valley by Lubby, McNeill & Libby from their local branch packing house, indicating the opening of the 1925 canning season.

MOURN OVER HEADS

PEKING, June 23.—Two poor to transport the bodies of relatives killed in the battle of Shanhaikwan last summer to their native place in Honan, a coolie was found carrying two heads draped in a cloth.

Attracted by a suspicious bundle, the customs inspector at Shanhaikwan stopped the man, who produced proper papers indicating that the he, is he had with him were those of relatives who had fought with Marshal Wu Peifu and, since he could not take back the bodies, the families had to be satisfied with the heads of their dead.

VALLEY WILL ASK SURVEY ON WATER

Bond Will Be Posted By La Crescenta Citizens As Result Of Meeting

Formation of a county water district as the best means of solving the water problems of the La Crescenta valley was urged by property holders who met last night to take initial steps to secure a survey by county engineers to determine the probable cost and feasibility of such a project. Plenty of water exists in the valley, it was declared by Harry Fowler who presided at the meeting. The difficulty that confronts the district is the inability to properly finance an adequate system of wells, pumps and mains under the present mutual companies. As a county water district the valley communities could bond themselves to the extent necessary for the installation of an adequate system, he said. The La Crescenta Valley Mutual Water Co., serving the lower portion of the valley, will be able to supply its consumers during the present summer and probably for another year. After that however, the directors of the company do not want to be responsible unless more adequate equipment is provided, W. R. Scully, president of the company, declared. Something must be done, he added.

Hazard From Fire
Hazard from fire in territory north of Michigan avenue, "brought about largely through failure of directors of the Mountain Water Co., serving that section, to install fire hydrants and take other precautionary measures," was pointed to by Charles Leary, vice-president of the La Crescenta Chamber of Commerce, who supported inclusion of the entire valley in the proposed water district rather than just that part served by the La Crescenta Mutual Co.

Chairman Fowler urged the project on the grounds that it would distribute the financial burden of developing water equally between property owners who have improved their lands and those who are allowing their holdings to lie idle. It would likewise guard against installation of inadequate systems of mains in new subdivisions, he said.

Post Survey Bond
The next step of the water district advocates will be posting of a bond of $1000 with the county to secure a water survey. On the results of this survey will be based their future action in the matter, they declared. Ten business men of the valley, each posting $100, will be responsible for the bond.

A formal resolution of endorsement of this plan received the unanimous vote of the property holders who assembled at the Fowler building at Verdugo City. They will meet again Wednesday, July 8.

Emerson Pupil Reads Entire Fitch Drama

Mrs. Martha E. Hunter, 117 South Orange street, entertained a number of guests with a dramatic interpretation of a play, "The Truth," by Clyde Fitch, after the students' recital last night at the Emerson School of Self-Expression, where she is a student of the professional department. She gave the entire four acts of the comedy-drama, and her impersonations of the six different characters was so well done as to give the audience a clear and delightful sense of the movement of the drama.

Mrs. Hunter was charmingly gowned in white silk crepe with lace flounce and wore a spray of red roses. She received a number of beautiful bouquets and many congratulations on her success in this, which was the second entire program since she became a student of the school. Approximately sixty were present, many of them from Los Angeles.

Detroit Visitors To Make Home In City

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spellman, of Detroit, and Mrs. Spellman's mother, Mrs. Benson of Painesville, Ohio, arrived in the city and will be located for a short time at 453 West California avenue. Interesting callers at their home were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Spicer, former residents of Detroit, now located in Los Angeles. Mrs. Spicer has concluded a trip around the world, having left Detroit, going east, toured Europe, spent five months in China, and joined her husband at San Francisco, who came directly west from their Detroit home. They are both connected with the Los Angeles public schools.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Another sterling member of the United States Senate—Edwin F. Ladd of North Dakota—has passed on. Although aligned with the Progressive element, he was a scholar whose advice was sought most freely in problems pertaining to agriculture. He was a scientist, a lawyer and a professor, as well as a politician. His loss, closely following that of La Follette, has dealt another blow to the ill-fated third party movement in America, it is commented, yet his contributions to the welfare of the agrarian populace, both in his home state and the nation at large, will live long to tell the wisdom of the Dakotans' choice as representative.

Coming, as he did, from a country beset by most radical leaders, Senator Ladd fitted well into the scheme of affairs. While he was, perhaps, unfortunate in not pleasing the masters of the Republican party, he could not serve two masters and remain in office, it would seem to a casual observer.

Considerable interest will be displayed in the selection of successors for the togas of La Follette and Ladd. They carved niches in the Senate which will be hard to fill, not to say very difficult to occupy, on the part of appointees.

President Coolidge is preaching economy. Like a wave that started with Governor Frank Lowden's regime in Illinois some five years ago when deflation hit his countrymen hard, California and Michigan and other states elected governors on similar platforms. President Coolidge was quick to adopt the mystical word "economy" and not unlike his vice-president, Charles G. Dawes, he is crusading with his hobby.

Now there is no one who doesn't admire economy. The people of California sought just that when they elected Governor Friend W. Richardson on his pledge of "Economy With Efficiency."

Incidentally, the governor is going to have quite a little surplus piled up this next political season to show for his work. However, it will be what is known as "frozen funds" for a large part—money which can be spent only by the governor and the board of control, and not money with which the Legislature has the power to deal. He didn't relinquish the purse strings.

For instance, the duly elected representatives of the people passed several bills which would have curbed, to a limited extent, the "freezing" of additional surplus funds in several departments. It was not malicious legislation. Nor was it designed to embarrass the governor. Yet he promptly vetoed the bills.

The writer honestly believes it is the Legislature's prerogative to say where funds shall be spent. Otherwise, it is merely a legislative council gathered together every two years to revamp the statutes and incur expenses attendant therewith.

And as for the legalistic council idea, the legislative council's bureau prepares bills on any subject, for anyone who happens to have an idea, without regard for constitutionality, like so many sausages on a string. There's no irony in that, for it's a recognized fact. As for appropriations, the Board of Control, presumably speaking for the governor, endeavors to tell the non-lawyer members (who usually are relegated to ways and means, and swamps and overflooded lands committees), what may be spent, or rather what little may be added to the pre-digested budget.

There is no question but what the Legislature, which had an opinionated idea of its own importance in years past, has been well tamed by Governor Richardson. But a steady diet of prunes when there are peaches and cream in the refrigerator—referring to the frozen funds—is going to have its effect in the next campaign. All of which is neither a threat, nor a promise, is simply an observation which the governor must read with as much pleasure as the writer takes in making it.

HEAT IN EASTERN TOWNS DESCRIBED

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stanford Tell About Trip Taken To Many States

"The farther you go from California, the hotter it gets," declared J. F. Stanford today, in telling of the eastern trip from which he and Mrs. Stanford returned yesterday. "In Yuma yesterday it was 112 degrees, but that is cold for Yuma, which has the record of being the hottest place in the United States."

In the middle west the mercury climbed clear out of the tube, according to Stanford. Although Mr. and Mrs. Stanford reported a most delightful trip, east or west, home is best and both declare that Glendale seemed like Paradise to come back to. "The Stanford went east on the northern route and returned over the southern one, and it was crossing the hot desert on the Sunset Limited that the mercury went the limit. Mr. and Mrs. Stanford visited Chicago and saw the Great Lakes, but did not take the lake trip, instead going by train to New York and Boston. In the New England city they visited the many points of historical interest, including Concord and Lexington and the Old South and North churches, seeing the lanterns of Paul Revere and many other interesting relics of a stirring time.

See Great Falls
In New York state, the Californians stopped at Niagara Falls, making the Canadian trip also. By boat, down the winding Hudson river from Albany to New York City was a delightful outing, declared Stanford, as was the sea trip between Boston and New York.

One of their experiences with the vagaries of the eastern climate was in Boston. A very hot Sunday morning found the Stanfords visiting the Boston chowder coming out of church after service, the Californians found the mercury had dropped almost forty degrees in about two hours.

San Antonio, Texas, reported no rain at all for a whole year, and while a delightful town was intensely hot, they said. Mrs. Mary Brock, sister of Mrs. Stanford, was hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Stanford at Fort Worth, Texas. A. A. Gilliland, nephew of Mrs. Stanford, was host at El Paso, Texas.

New York Traffic
Stanford says that a business depression seems to be general and that apparently no place is booming unless it is Florida, although conditions in New York City seem better than elsewhere.

As far as the traffic and the crowds go, the Californian thinks Los Angeles just about holds its own with New York in regard to crowds and certainly equals or exceeds the metropolis in the handling of them. Crowds in New York City cover a larger area than in Los Angeles, but the congestion seems scarcely greater.

SAYS ASTRONOMY TAUGHT BY BIBLE

Law Of Gravity And Shape Of Earth Described, Lecturer Declares

The Bible as a text book on astronomy was the theme of Philip Knox, astronomer-evangelist, at the tent on North Brand boulevard last night. Discoveries made by the marvelous instruments possessed by astronomers today for use in the study of the heavens, he said, not only prove the existence of God, but also prove the inspiration of His Word.

"When the Bible was written," the speaker said, "men believed that this world was the only one in existence, and that everything in the sky revolved around it. They also believed, the earth was flat, and that it rested upon something for support."

"In Job 38:32, God asks Job the question, 'Canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons?' The force of this question hangs upon a fact that was not known or dreamed of until it was discovered, by the use of modern instruments for measuring the speed of the heavenly bodies, that Arcturus, a star equal in size to a million of our suns, is plunging through space at the terrific speed of 257 miles a second.

Runaway Star
"Arcturus is, in fact, a runaway star, and one astronomer has said of it that the combined attraction of all the stars we know of cannot stop it or even turn it from its course. Taking his 'sons,' or planets, with him, this giant star is plunging through the universe unchecked by any other star or stars, and in time would leave our universe and, perhaps, enter some other system. With this discovery in our minds we can see the significance of the question God put to Job."

"Another question was, 'Canst thou bind the sweet cluster of the Pleiades?' verse 34, revised translation. The significance of this question can now be understood in the light of the discovery that the stars of the Pleiades are not held to each other by gravitation and do not revolve about each other as the stars in other groups, but are pulling apart, and in course of time will part company altogether. This cluster of stars is what is called a 'loose constellation.'"

"This same verse also speaks about the 'bands of Orion.' Unlike the Pleiades, Orion is a cluster of stars that seem to be held together as if by bands of iron. 'Canst thou loose the bands of Orion?' was God's question to Job; and modern astronomy, by its discoveries touching this wonderful constellation, proves the Bible to be an authority on astronomy.

Speed of Earth
"To hold our world to the sun requires a force of gravity equal to that which would be required to break a steel bar 3000 miles in thickness. The earth is circling around the sun at a speed of 15 1/2 miles a second. If it moved faster than this it would overcome this force of gravity, fly off into space, and put all its inhabitants in cold storage; while if it moved any slower, the pull of gravity would draw it into the sun and we would all die in fire. "Whoever made the earth knew how to calculate exactly what rate of motion to give it, so that the two great forces—gravity on the one hand and the tendency of all moving bodies to go in a straight line on the other hand—would be exactly counterbalanced, and thus keep the earth in the path of safety. This is another proof of the power and wisdom of a Creator revealed in a study of the heavens."

The lecturer tonight, Mr. Knox, announced, will take up the question of evolution. He will say, he said, that the first two chapters of Genesis are in harmony with the latest discoveries of science, and that evolution is a false theory.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, June 23.—Forest conservation, the saving of California watersheds, was the text of the speech given yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the Montrose-La Crescenta Kiwanis luncheon, when the big brothers entertained as their guests twenty-nine small brothers, all members of the Montrose-La Crescenta Boy Scout troops at Oakmont Country club.

Harold Ryerson, the speaker, was appropriately introduced by Harvey Bissell, chairman of the program committee. Ryerson told of the conservation program as practiced in Klamath county, Oregon, last year, and how the first three weeks after the safety propaganda had been put into effect, the country had no forest fires to report.

From July 1 to 15 California will have a conservation program. Boy and Girl Scouts will work to procure the written pledge of every resident to help save the forests, and what is of greater importance to California than to any other state, its watersheds. Prizes are being offered to the boy or girl getting the greatest number of signatures in each district, while a prize will be awarded the child procuring the largest number in the state. Every Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club will co-operate.

In conclusion, the speaker said the number of redwoods being planted exceeds the number of such trees being cut each day. Harvey Bissell of High Up ranch gave a most interesting account of the life of the walnut from its beginning in the grove to its end in the cracking machine. Bissell said there are 50,000 walnut growers in the state and 100,800 acres of the nut trees, making a crop of about 21,000 tons annually. Owing to the fact that the California Walnut Growers' association insists on strict grading of the produce nuts from this state command a higher price than those shipped to the eastern markets from other groves. Nuts not up to shipping standard go to the cracking department, where they are prepared for the confectioners, who purchase them shelled. Machines in the factory shell and prepare nuts at the rate of fifteen tons a day each. Even these nuts are graded according to shades. Shells are used for charcoal. Only nuts that grade 90 per cent perfect are shipped from this state.

From the applause he received the boys evidently enjoyed the talk by Bissell.

Announcements were made by W. A. Clark, president of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, who told of the ticket-selling campaign for the funds to take care of the new park in which all the boys and girls of the valley have an interest and are hoping to win the prize offered. Kiwanis songs were sung, accompanied by Phil Belanger and led by E. Fowler of Montrose, Kiwanis song leader.

Telegrams from the delegates en route to the St. Paul convention were read by Secretary Lee Merritt, one being from Needles,

ENGINEER'S PLEAS WIN SUPERVISORS

Casa Verdugo Incorporation Election Set Despite Absence Of Wright

Despite the absence of Henry Wright, representative of the San Fernando valley on the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, that body yesterday rescinded its action after it had decided to lay over for three weeks a petition to call an incorporation election for Casa Verdugo and set August 4 as the date.

It was on the urgent plea of J. Ogden Marsh, chief engineer of the Board of Public Works, Los Angeles, a resident of Casa Verdugo, that the board reconsidered its action delaying approval of the petition.

Board Would Wait
The petition was on the calendar for action by the board yesterday morning, but because of the absence of Wright, the official representative of the Casa Verdugo district, who is on his annual vacation, other members of the board agreed to defer consideration until the afternoon session. When the matter was called in the afternoon, the board agreed to continue it until Wright's return.

Marsh opposed delay, declaring that the election should be called as soon as possible. He urged that the voters of Casa Verdugo be given an immediate opportunity to voice their desires as to whether or not that district shall be incorporated in a city of a sixth class.

The HOUSE Of The ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

She spoke with very great eagerness, and a note of supplication that the matter should rest there. "In any case, what has disappeared is mine, isn't it? And I am not going to imitate Monsieur Boris. I make no complaint."

Hanaud shook his head. "You are very kind, Made-moiselle. But we cannot, alas! say here 'That will do now.' It was strange to Jim to notice how he kept harping upon the words of that whisper. 'We are not dealing with a case of theft, but with a case of murder. We must go on. What is it that you miss?'"

"A pearl necklace," Betty answered reluctantly. "A big one."

It was noticeable that as Betty's reluctance increased Hanaud became more peremptory and abrupt.

"Not so very."

"Describe it to me, Made-moiselle!"

Betty hesitated. She stood with a troubled face looking out upon the garden. Then with a shrug of resignation she obeyed. "There were thirty-five pearls—not so very large, but they were perfectly matched and of a beautiful pink. My uncle took a great deal of trouble and some years to collect them. Madame told me herself that they actually cost him nearly a hundred thousand pounds. They would be worth even more now."

"A fortune, then," cried Hanaud.

Not a person in that room had any belief that the necklace would be found, laid aside somewhere by chance. Here was Hanaud's case building itself up steadily. Another story was added to it this afternoon. This or that experiment might fail. What did that matter? A motive for the murder came to light now. Jim had an intuition that nothing now could prevent a definite result; that the truth, like a beam of light that travels for a million of years, would in the end strike upon a dark spot, and that some one would stand helpless and dazzled in a glare—the criminal.

"Who knew of this necklace of yours, Made-moiselle, beside yourself?" Hanaud asked.

"Every one in the house, Monsieur," Madame wore it nearly always.

"She wore it, then, on the day of her death?"

"Yes," Betty began, and she turned towards Ann for confirmation, and then swiftly turned away again. "I think so."

"I am sure of it," said Ann steadily, though her face had grown rather white and her eyes anxious.

"How long has Francine Rolard been with you?" Hanaud asked of Betty.

"Three years. No—a little more. She is the only maid I have ever had," Betty answered with a laugh.

"I see," Hanaud said thoughtfully; and what he saw, it seemed to Jim Frobisher that every one else in that room saw too. For no one looked at Ann Upcott. Old servants do not steal valuable necklaces: Ann Upcott and Jeanne Baudin, the nurse, were the only newcomers to the Maison Grenelle these many years; and Jeanne Baudin had the best of characters. Thus the argument seemed to run though no one expressed it in words.

Hanaud turned his attention to the lock of the cupboard, and shook his head over it. Then he crossed to the dressing table and the morocco case.

"Aha!" he said with a lively interest. "This is a different affair!" and he bent down closely over it.

The case was not locked with a key at all. There were three small gilt knobs in the front of the case, and the lock was set by the number of revolutions given to each knob. These, of course, could be varied with each knob, and all must be known before the case could be opened—Mrs. Harlowe's jewels had been guarded by a formula.

"There has been no violence used here," said Hanaud, standing up again.

"Of course my aunt may have forgotten to lock the case," said Betty.

"Of course that's possible," Hanaud agreed.

"And of course this room was open to any one between the time of my aunt's funeral and Sunday morning, when the doors were sealed."

"A week, in fact—with Boris Waberski in the house," said Hanaud.

"Yes . . . yes," said Betty. "Only . . . but I expect it is just mislaid and we shall find it."

She said Monsieur Boris expected to get some money from my lawyers in London. No doubt he meant to make a bargain with me. It doesn't look as if he had stolen it. He wouldn't want a thousand pounds if he had."

Jim had left Boris out of his speculations. He had recollected him with a thrill of hope that he would be discovered to be the thief when Hanaud mentioned his name. But the hope died away again before the reluctant and deadly reasoning of Betty Harlowe. On the other hand, if Boris and Ann were really accomplices in the murder, because he wanted his legacy, the necklace might well have been Ann's share. More and more, which ever way one looked at it, the facts pointed damningly towards Ann.

"Well, we will see if it has been mislaid," said Hanaud. "But, meanwhile, Made-moiselle, it would be well for you to lock that case up and to take it some time this afternoon to your bankers."

Betty shut down the lid and spun the knobs one after the other. Three times a swift succession of sharp little clicks was heard in the room.

"You have not used, I hope, the combination which Madame Harlowe used," said Hanaud.

"I never knew the combination she used," said Betty. She lifted the jewel case back into its cupboard, and the search of the drawers and the cupboards began. But it was as barren of result as had been the search of the treasure room for the arrow.

"We can do no more," said Hanaud.

"Yes. One thing more."

The correction came quietly from Ann Upcott. She was standing by herself, very pale and dejected, and the search of the drawers and the cupboards began. But it was as barren of result as had been the search of the treasure room for the arrow.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS
Copyright, 1925, By The George Matthew Adams Service

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

Hanaud bowed, and before he could move from his position Betty did a thing for which Jim could have hugged her there and then before them all. She went straight to Ann and set her arm about her waist.

"I'll wait with you, Ann," she said. "Of course it's ridiculous, and she led Ann out of the room."

King's Brother Exiled In Jugo-Slavia Fight

BELGRADE, June 23.—Prince George Karageorgievitch, the elder brother of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, has been virtually exiled at Puzta, a castle belonging to the domains of Bellye, formerly one of the favorite hunting seats of the Hapsburg Archduke Frederick.

King Alexander ordered his brother interned at the Ballye estate under the supervision of a famous mental specialist.

The prince has aroused the dis-

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND WEEZIE'S TRICK

Weezie Littlelall was a small rabbit girl—one of the new bunny children who had come to Uncle Wiggily with his new wife, Weezie, and those two little rabbits were as full of fun and mischief as a Christmas doll is full of sawdust.

But this story is about Weezie, mostly that is, though her brother Wiggily had a little part in it. And this is the way it happened. You must know that all the little bunny boys and girls who had come to live with the rabbit gentleman in his hollow stump bungalow were little tykes. That is they were always playing tricks and jokes on their new daddy.

But Weezie and Wiggily were the worst. There was the time when Wiggily tied a string to Uncle Wiggily's ear, when the rabbit gentleman was asleep—but I am forgetting—I must tell about Weezie's trick.

"Aren't you glad we don't have to go to school today?" said Wiggily to his sister one afternoon, when, because of examinations, they came home at noon.

"Yes, I'm terribly glad," answered Weezie. "And I wish we could do something, don't you?"

But Wiggily did not answer. His sister looked at him in a queer way and she asked again:

"What's the matter, Wiggily?"

"Hush! Hush!" he whispered.

"What's the matter, Wiggily?"

"Hush! Hush!" he whispered.

"What's the matter, Wiggily?"

"Hush! Hush!" he whispered.

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE GIVEN IN GLENDALE

W.E. BROWN TALKS AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Member of Board of Lectureship for Mother Church Speaks on Truth About God, Universe and Man

William E. Brown, C. S. B., of Los Angeles, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, gave an address on "Christian Science: The Truth About God, Man and the Universe," at the auditorium of the Broadway High School.

The speaker was introduced by L. V. Martin, first reader of the local church. Mr. Brown's address follows in full:

Something over nineteen centuries ago a Roman governor pronounced to the Master of men the most important question of all time, namely: "What is truth?" The Bible does not record Jesus' answer to this question and for centuries mortals have been seeking a satisfactory solution of Pilate's query.

In talking with his disciples Jesus declared concerning God and the real man, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Every afflicted mortal is still asking with Pilate, "What is truth?" and Christian Science brings you the answer tonight.

GOD THE ONLY CAUSE

In endeavoring to comprehend the truth of being it will be necessary to consider first the source and origin of all truth—a source that is commonly referred to by Christendom as God, creator, or First Cause. In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, defines God as infinite Mind, an all-pervading intelligence in which all things live, move and have their being. Since God is all, as the Scriptures iterate and reiterate, it follows that Mind is all, and this fact is the basic stone in the foundation of Christian Science.

As God, infinite Mind, is the only cause or creator, it logically follows that all God creates must be like Himself, wholly and changelessly perfect. Since God created an infinitely perfect universe, there was only one thing which such a universe could do and that was to remain perfect, and this is exactly what happened. Christian Science, therefore, maintains that God's universe is perfect and that the senses have been and ever will be perfect, harmonious and eternal.

SENSE TESTIMONY UNRELIABLE

Of this Mrs. Eddy writes on page 10 of her "Miscellaneous Writings": "Mind governs all. That we exist in God, perfect, there is no doubt, for the conceptions of Life, Truth, and Love must be perfect; and with that basic truth we conquer sickness, sin, and death." Here the question naturally arises, "If all this be true what cause the discord which seems to engulf humanity?" But before answering this question let us return for a moment to our original premise—the allness of God. Standing on this primal fact we instantly see that a perfect God could not be the author of human discord, and as He is the only cause we are forced to conclude that evils of every kind are without true cause or origin; hence are but illusions, the vagaries of a mortal mind, the carnal mind which disappears as soon as the unreal nature is discarded.

For instance, when in the early centuries the world was believed to be flat the mariners were afraid to sail out beyond certain limits because of their belief that they would fall over the edge of the earth to destruction, but when the truth about the shape of the earth was discovered it proved the former idea and its groundless fear disappeared forever.

The belief in evil and its varied manifestations is all that hides the real or perfect universe from our vision, so we see the all important thing to do is to dispel the mortal illusions so that we may behold the universe as God beholds it—changelessly perfect and eternal.

SPIRITUAL UNDERSTANDING

Because God is the infinite and all-inclusive Mind there resides in this Mind all perfection, wisdom, beauty, culture, prosperity, harmony, abundance and joy. Since this is true the quickest way to possess these qualities is to become identified with this Mind. Solomon said in speaking of the blessings which come to one who thus identifies himself: "Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. For the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof, shall be lost; and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her; and happy is every one that retaineth her." And David said, "I understand more than the angels, because I keep thy precepts."

SALVATION

From what has been said of God and His universe it will be seen that what is called salvation is really a process of awakening to spiritual facts, the gaining of spiritual vision. The prophet declared, "Where there is no vision the people perish." There are many references in the Bible to this process of awakening. The Psalmist sang, "I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness"; and Paul declared "Awake thou that sleepest... and Christ shall give thee light."

In this process of spiritual awakening Christian Science gives us most helpful and fundamental aid by pointing out that heaven and earth to the human consciousness seem material while to spiritual consciousness their spiritual nature is revealed.

Jesus taught his disciples that the kingdom of heaven is at hand but while having eyes they saw not; in other words, he declared that they were not yet conscious of the divine perfection that surrounded them.

Little children frequently grasp these spiritual truths more quickly than do adults. For instance I knew a little lad of four years who attended the Christian Science Sunday school and there came one Sunday to his class a little visitor who was desirous of answering all the questions.

So, when the teacher asked the question, "Where is the kingdom of heaven?" the visiting member instantly said, "It's a place you go to when you die." Immediately my small friend spoke up, "Miss Blank, this boy must think he's in an old-fashioned Sunday school." "Well then," said she, "where do you think the kingdom of heaven is?"

"Instantly he replied, 'The kingdom of heaven isn't where the kingdom of heaven is when—it's when you're good.'"

So then, salvation means to awaken so that we may know ourselves and the universe as God knows them, eternally harmonious, complete and indestructibly perfect.

SPIRITUAL CONSCIOUSNESS

The question which many of you are doubtless asking at this moment is, "If this be true, how can we awaken to see all things as God sees them?" Let me read you Mrs. Eddy's answer to this most important question; on page 242 of the Christian Science textbook she writes, "There is but one way to heaven, and that is by Christ in divine Science, shows us this way. It is to know no other reality—to have no other consciousness of life—than good, God and His reflection, and to rise superior to the so-called pain and pleasure of the senses."

Since the task before us is to clarify our consciousness so that we may behold spiritual things as they really are, we must begin by excluding from our consciousness all that is unlike God. Right here let me give you some comforting and helpful information; most mortals untrained in Christian Science mistakenly believe that they create thought, but they do not, they simply think thoughts from ideas which come to them from sources outside themselves. So, when we suggest come knocking at the door of our thought, seeking admission, we are not to condemn ourselves but to reject the suggestions. It has been wisely and helpfully said that we are not to blame if a tramp knocks at our door but to tramp names if we go a-tramping with him.

If we dwell in the basic truth of the allness of God and His perfect universe, persistently rejecting all suggestions to the contrary, we shall receive the proof of the truth of this premise in overcoming discordant conditions whether they be called mental, moral, physical or financial.

Let us maintain a stand on the platform of a perfect God, perfect man, and a perfect universe and endeavoring to realize the truth about yourself and your neighbor you will experience a new joy you will maintain your own equilibrium and improve all conditions that surround you. In this activity all sorts of discords begin to disappear and among the first to go is one that is the source of much misery and unhappiness, that is, criticism.

When the student of Christian Science is confronted with the belief of evil, seeking to express itself through some fellow mortal, he does not condemn the individual but knows that the evil belief is not of God, that it is therefore unreal, and that the real man reflects only infinite good. He pictures to himself a community in which a majority of its members constantly strive to know the truth about one another; this would certainly be a foretaste of heaven. Let us therefore, resolve with Paul "Henceforth know me no man after the flesh," that is, from now on we shall not think of man as a fleshly or material being, but shall endeavor to see him as God sees man, spiritually perfect. This practice is the fulfilling of the Scriptural commands to love your neighbor as yourself and to refrain from bearing false witness.

When we realize that the most important thing in life is to know the truth about ourselves and our neighbor and to refuse to declare or be a witness for aught that is evil or false, we not only shall be working out our own salvation but we shall be doing our share toward redeeming the whole world.

REDEMPTION FOR ALL

While we are discussing this question of salvation let us consider who and how many are to be saved. Here let me give you a comforting thought concerning the loved ones who are apparently not at all interested in spiritual matters and who seemingly are on the broad way to destruction. This comforting thought I speak of is embodied in the beautiful story of the prodigal son. You will remember that he wasted his substance in riotous living and finally found himself feeding with the swine. Then it is related that when he came to himself he exclaimed, "I will arise and go to my father."

This experience of the prodigal son is but typical of all mortal experience. All who know not the truth are prodigals and all must finally leave the husks of materiality and come back to the Father's house, the understanding of spiritual truth.

In speaking of the complete salvation of all mankind the Scriptures declare that "they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them." Now what is it to "know me" (God)? Jesus said, "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee."

So then all are finally to recognize and express eternal life. Sometimes the process of destroying sin and disease in a stubbornness and self-will of mortals may not be a pleasant experience, but there is no question as to the final outcome. In speaking of this experience Paul told the Corinthians, "If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire."

This recalls the reply of a Christian Science practitioner to the query of a patient who asked, "What are the chances for now?" Instantly the reply came, "You have no choice in the matter; you must get well. Somewhere, somehow, sometime you must overcome all discord and you might as well begin now."

Possibly there are those here tonight to whom the living suggestion of death may have come as a way of escape from sin, disease and misfortune. Even a slight knowledge of Christian Science forever annihilates a consideration of this method, because it shows with invincible logic that life and consciousness cannot be extinguished for a moment or of time. Since life is and nothing can produce death, life itself is self-evident that life simply is without beginning or end.

Since one could not cease to be conscious of existence, of what benefit could it possibly be to prolong a sense of discord? Such procedure would result in the condition described in the Scriptures as "wrath against the wrath of wrath." The ultimate of this would be such an intense sense of suffering that one would be compelled like the prodigal son to arise and go back to his Father. In view of these facts we shall not, if we are wise, waste any time in wondering who and how many are to be saved, but on the contrary, we shall realize that the prodigal, no matter how far he has strayed, is coming home, and as he comes, will find his Father running to meet him.

HEALING AND PRAYER

Much that I have told you about salvation will receive assent from those who do not yet know of Christian Science, and who do not realize that the healing of sin, disease and all mortal ills is inseparably linked with true salvation—indeed this healing constitutes the proof and assurance that we are working out our problem along correct lines. If one is in doubt as to the soundness of his spiritual convictions all that is necessary is to read the chapter of I Corinthians, which reads, "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." This verse plainly declares that if we dwell in the Adamic or mortal condition of consciousness we shall die, but if we forsake this and gain the Christ or spiritual state of consciousness—the consciousness that knows the truth about God and the universe—we shall live.

Jesus became the Way-shower to this spiritual understanding. You will recall that in the third chapter of I John we are told, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be." It was the mission of Jesus to make this fact appear in the first century and it is the mission of Christian Science to make it appear today. Truth is eternal and ever present; it only requires discernment to make it available. The appearing of these facts manifested in better health, better morals, increased happiness and prosperity is what the Apostle referred to in his definition of faith, namely, "the evidence of things not seen."

The Christian Science conception of Christ Jesus is epitomized in the fourth Tenet of the Christian Science church, which I shall read from the Manual of the Mother Church written by Mrs. Eddy (p. 15): "We acknowledge Jesus' atonement as the evidence of divine, efficacious Love, of man's unity with God through Christ Jesus the Way-shower; and we acknowledge that man is saved through Christ, through Truth, Life, and Love as demonstrated by the Galilean Prophet in healing the sick and overcoming sin and death."

MATTER

In the year 1866, Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, declared for the allness of God and the nonexistence of matter. By a world consciousness steeped in materiality this great discovery was not understood and hence became a target for ridicule and misrepresentation. Mrs. Eddy, reasoning from the Scriptural premise of the allness of God, infinite Spirit, was forced to the conclusion that infinite Spirit must necessarily express itself in a spiritual universe and that it must all be spiritual in its nature, not part Spirit and part matter. When Mrs. Eddy declares that all is the expression of infinite Mind, God, she is not denying the existence of the universe but declaring that it is wholly spiritual and not a mixture of Spirit and matter. She sums up the entire situation by declaring that "what the human mind terms matter and spirit indicate states and stages of consciousness" (Science and Health, p. 573).

It is interesting to know that after a half century of ridicule the leading material scientists are now, in substance, agreeing with Mrs. Eddy's original announcement concerning the nonexistence of matter. The modern physicists are teaching that what is termed matter is, in the last analysis, an expression of energy. As there is no action apart from Mind this is equivalent to declaring that matter is mental in its cause and nature; or, as the philosophers say, made of mind-stuff, and this is exactly what Mrs. Eddy said in 1866. In other words, Mrs. Eddy led the world's foremost thinkers and scientists by approximately half a century.

The importance of realizing that what is called material is really mental resides in the fact that when this is understood it shows the possibility of harmonious control through spiritual thinking and of understanding what Paul meant when he said, "For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." When we realize that what we call our physical body is really wholly governed and controlled by thinking, we can readily understand that whether it is to be harmonious or discordant will be determined by the nature of the thoughts we entertain. Moreover, this knowledge frees us from the belief that man is a victim of circumstances for it is self-evident that if all things are mental then what we call our environment or experience in life is also mental. As we learn that what we call our every-day experience is but a reflection or expression of what we are thinking we see the possibility of changing our environment and begin to understand the meaning of the spiritual statement concerning mortals, "For ye thinketh 'his heart, so is he.'"

From this viewpoint it will be seen that in the last analysis we are not the victims of circumstances but really responsible for them. Then, with Paul, we should decide to become transformed through the renewing of our mind.

Teaching of Christian Science in regard to the allness of Mind and the nonexistence of matter does not deny the existence of the world about us, nor does it rob us of the beauties of Nature. Of the misconception called matter Mrs. Eddy has this to say, "Every material belief hints the existence of spiritual things, and if mortals are instructed in spiritual things, it will be seen that material beliefs in all its manifestations, reversed, will be found the type and representative of verities priceless, eternal, and just at hand" (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 60). Paul puts it in another way when he declares, "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then shall we know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known."

In place of losing anything that is worth while we are enabled through Christian Science to perceive the true nature and qualities of God's creation in their indestructible glory.

THE BIBLE

Christian Science is wholly based on the Bible. The Bible of our forefathers and Mrs. Eddy is emphatic in her statement that the Bible was her only guide and authority. One of the many valuable things presented to the world by Christian Science is the ability to interpret the Scriptures spiritually. The book of Genesis for example is not, as is commonly supposed, a record of the creation of a material universe, but that is why the accounts in the book of Genesis do not correspond with the material theories of evolution, biology and geology. That is why some declare that the Biblical account is mythical. In place of being an account of the creation of a material universe it is, as Mrs. Eddy puts it, "the history of the untrue image of God, named a sinful mortal" (Science and Health, p. 562).

In describing the coming of spiritual ideas to the consciousness of men the Bible frequently employs everyday phenomena by way of illustration. For example, in the first chapter of Genesis the orderly and progressive coming of truth to consciousness is described as "the light of day"—a term which simply means periods of spiritual illumination. The term day is used throughout the Scriptures to indicate spiritual understanding. For instance, many things are to happen "in the day of the Lord," "Abraham rejoiced to see my day."

Again let us consider the journey of the Children of Israel from Egypt to the promised land; from darkness and ignorance to spiritual understanding and peace. This is the mental journey of all who seek Truth. The experiences of the Israelites when interpreted spiritually are extremely helpful to all who desire to leave the Adamic consciousness and to enter the Christ consciousness. Egypt, the Red Sea, the Wilderness are but typical of mental stages of growth through which we pass on our journey from a material sense of things to a spiritual.

In the allegory of the Garden of Eden Adam was warned not to eat of the tree of "the knowledge of good and evil." In other words, beware of believing in the supposed mingling of good and evil, for such conjoining is impossible since God, good, is all. Here then, in belief, is the spiritual position of all discord—the illusory claim that there is a power opposed to God when it is evident that God is the only power. In this connection, an opponent of what he believed Christian Science to be was impelled to make this statement, "If we concede Mrs. Eddy's premise that God is all we must concede everything that she has said," and still another one has declared, "There is this to be said of her, that she is the only power. In this connection, an opponent of what he believed Christian Science to be was impelled to make this statement, 'If we concede Mrs. Eddy's premise that God is all we must concede everything that she has said,' and still another one has declared, 'There is this to be said of her, that she is the only power. POLICE LEARNING
JIU JITSU TRICKS

D. R. Hamilton Gives Officers Training Course For Defensive Work

Fire arms will mean nothing to members of the Glendale police department in the future, and strongarm crooks will be phoo-phooed by the smallest man on the force.
Emulating the wiry brown men of the Orient, officers of the police department yesterday began a study of jiu jitsu under the supervision of D. R. Hamilton, traveling police instructor. They will be given a two-hour workout daily at the Harvard High school gymnasium. The instruction will continue until twenty-five jiu jitsu tricks especially available for police work, are thoroughly learned.
Jiu jitsu, Chief of Police John D. Fraser explained today, is the art of applying force on certain nerves of an opponent, and in the use of certain "holds" that bring the captive to the ground and force him into passive submission in an instant.
Will Teach Others
Chief Fraser is taking the course, as well as Lieutenants Nunn and Royle and Sergeants Williams, Lauritzen, Kerns, Henderson, Blake and Mercer. When they have completed the work, members of the force will be divided into squads to be taught the art by the police officers.
"When this work has been completed, I'll stack up the smallest man on my force against the biggest and strongest crook that ever turned a trick and feel assured that the yeggman will passively hold out his hands for the manacles after less than a one-minute work-over," Chief Fraser declared today.

Elks Of Santa Monica
To Put On Work Here

Eight candidates, balloted on favorably by members of Glendale Elks' lodge last night, will be initiated into the order next Monday night when officers and members of Santa Monica lodge, accompanied by the Santa Monica band, visit Glendale. Officers of the beach city lodge will exemplify initiatory ceremonies. They will be entertained at dinner at 6:30 o'clock by officers of Glendale lodge. Special entertainment features on the program will be under the supervision of Gus H. Pulliam.
Glendale lodgemen will journey to Burbank Friday night of this week where they will put on degree work at the new Burbank clubrooms. Plans for the regular monthly dance next Saturday night, open to all Elks and their friends, were announced by Dr. Paul J. Hunter last night. Gerald A. Dockery presided at the meeting. He was assisted by Earl S. Patterson, past exalted ruler, who acted as esteemed leading knight.

Picnic Planned By 4000
Public Utility Employees

Three hundred employees of the Southern California Gas Co. in Glendale and San Fernando district will join other employees in the annual picnic scheduled for August 8 at Santa Monica. More than 4000 gas company workers will be in attendance.
S. C. Singer, manager of the San Fernando valley offices, will have charge of transporting the picnicers to the beach city. Special Pacific Electric trains will be chartered for the occasion. Cars will run from Glendale, Burbank, Lancaster and Van Nuys. R. S. Cheatham, of the Glendale office, will also be on the general committee on arrangements. The gas company will lease the Crystal pier dancing pavilion and a number of other pier concessions for the day. Baseball games and other athletic events are on the program.

Brilliant Reception Is Accorded To Pianist

Brahm Van Den Berg, eminent pianist, was accorded a brilliant reception last night in his concert at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard. Friends of the artist crowded the studio of the affair. Such applause followed each number that Van Den Berg was forced to respond with many encores.
His program was "Fantasie" (Chopin); "To Jacques" (Van Den Berg), reproduced by the Ampico; "Berceuse" (Chopin); "La Campanella" (Liszt); "The Angelus" (Van Den Berg); "Arlequin and Columbine" (Van Den Berg); "Staccato" (Rubinstein); "Concerto A Minor, Part One" (Grieg).
Glendale Postal Aide
Head Of Benefit Club

New officers of the County Postal Employees Death Benefit association which includes in its present membership employees of the Glendale, Pasadena and Long Beach offices, were elected at the annual meeting held in Glendale last night.
George Hallett, assistant postmaster at the local office, was named general chairman of the organization. F. C. Robinson of Pasadena will be secretary and treasurer. Plans to extend membership to other offices in the county during the coming year were discussed.

Furnishes Fine Home

Residence of George D. Perry, Port Jefferson, Long Island, New York, for which the curtains and draperies were furnished by GEORGE E. WILLIAMS, proprietor of Williams Dry Goods store.

The new $40,000 home of George D. Perry, Port Jefferson, Long Island, N. Y., has just been furnished with curtains and draperies by George E. Williams, proprietor of Williams Dry Goods store, 103 North Brand boulevard.
The Perry's have long been friends of Mr. Williams, and knowing that he is an authority on rugs, curtains and draperies they wrote him for suggestions. As a result of the ensuing correspondence, Mr. Williams, after supplying samples and instructions for measuring the rooms, furnished the curtains and draperies for the entire twelve rooms. The Perry's were very well pleased with the result and state that all details worked out as satisfactorily as though the work had been right here in Glendale.
Mr. Williams is considered one of the best authorities in the state on rugs, curtains and draperies, having spent his entire life in this branch of the business. He says that fifteen or twenty years ago the owner of a fine home would buy plain Brussels not, but nowadays curtains and draperies are considered foremost in home decoration.

REMOVAL OF REALTY OFFICE IS ANNOUNCED

Arthur M. Gilman Opens New Quarters In Atwater Park In Structure Erected for His Company

Paul E. Lipscomb, in charge of the Atwater branch since 1921, will remain as head of the home and home-sites division, with Harold J. Briggs as salesman.
The industrial sales department will be supervised by Warren A. Rix. This department will specialize in the leasing of business and industrial property in all parts of Los Angeles and vicinity.
Building will be under the direction of Mr. Gilman personally with A. A. Coulson as building superintendent. Mr. Coulson has been connected with Mr. Gilman in this capacity for seven years both here and in the east.
In addition to these departments special attention will be given the sale of southwestern farm lands and Southern California cabin sites through the home and exchange department, under the supervision of George Legge and L. L. Wilson. "Wilson Mesa" Arizona lands, small farm sites in Los Angeles county and "Glen Martin" cabin sites on the Rim of the World in the San Bernardino mountains are handled through this department at the present time.
Mr. Gilman first operated in the Atwater district in 1921 when he subdivided the Glenhurst Terrace tract. He is a pioneer realtor and builder of the district. Many of the better houses of the section have been built by Mr. Gilman. First-class building principles coupled with the opportunity to finance 100 per cent has built a large business for the building department.
Since the subdivision of the Glenhurst Terrace tract, Mr. Gilman has maintained an office on Glendale boulevard under the management of P. E. Lipscomb. This office has handled home-site and building activities of the concern in the Atwater section.
With the full executive staff quartered in Atwater Park, the Gilman realty office takes its place among the important business developments of the district.
The new offices are highly attractive. The interior is finished in mahogany, forming a pleasing contrast to the light oak furnishings. Over each desk is a large wrought-iron standard bridge lamp. Departments are segregated so that the maximum amount of business can be handled at all times.
Since coming to the Atwater district, Mr. Gilman has been a leader in community life. He is commencing his third term as president of the Atwater Community Improvement association's body, functioning as a Chamber of Commerce in the district. Other civic activities have occupied much of his time and attention. Civic leaders and business men joined today in congratulating Mr. Gilman on his decision to move his entire business to Atwater Park so that more of his time can be spent there.
"Not the biggest, but next to the biggest fixture house in Southern California." This is the slogan that has been adopted by Rudling Electrical Construction shop, 3154 Glendale boulevard. The secret is this: C. S. Rudling has been in business in the Atwater district for two and one-half years. During that time he has done approximately 70 per cent of the electrical work of the district. Recently a huge electrical construction plant, said to be the largest in Southern California, moved next door to the Rudling shop. Mr. Rudling, although he never laid claim to the distinction before, now claims that he is next to the largest plant in the southwest.

High class electrical construction of all kinds is specialized in by Mr. Rudling. In addition he does a large fixture and equipment business. Westinghouse products are handled exclusively.
Mr. Rudling announced special prices on two standard Westinghouse products today. It is said to be the first time the prices were ever cut on these articles.
For a period of thirty days Westinghouse curling irons, which regularly retail at $5 will be sold for $3.50. Westinghouse waffle irons, regularly sold at $18 will be on sale for $15. This is probably the only opportunity Atwater people will have of securing these articles at reduced prices.
The Burbank Lumber Co. started to serve Arthur M. Gilman, Atwater builder and realtor, when he first opened the Glenhurst Terrace subdivision in 1921.
An incident in which the lumber concern feels that it lost money was related today by Russell B. Mullin, manager. Mr. Gilman, he said, offered to exchange a full line of samples and facilities for making specifications and helpful suggestions are maintained at the plant offices on Hollywood boulevard. Mr. Calhoun has found a large field for his line of work in Glendale, he stated. He announced his intention of opening a branch office here in the future.
His marked success in his line, Mr. Calhoun bases on his high class work and his efforts to give complete satisfaction.
Most of the roofing materials, hardware and paint used in the construction of houses by Arthur M. Gilman Co. in the Atwater district has been furnished by the Red Feather Materials Co., 3409 Glendale boulevard. The Red Feather Co. has operated in Atwater Park for more than three years. Approximately 60 per cent of the building hardware sold in the district was handled through this concern during the three year period.
An absolutely guarantee of satisfaction is given on every article that leaves the store. Courteous and fair treatment is the motto of H. M. Brittain and L. B. Butler, proprietors.
The business is thoroughly depersonalized building hardware, general hardware, roofing and

LA FOLLETTE'S SON MAY SUCCEED HIM

Wisconsin Progressives To Have Voice In Naming New U. S. Senator

By KENNETH CLARK
For International News Service.
MADISON, Wis., June 23.—A member of the La Follette family, either the widow or the oldest son, Robert, Jr., will make the race for the United States Senate seat made vacant by the death of Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.
This was the definite program announced by national and state Progressive leaders here today for holding together harmoniously and unitedly the great political organization built by the dead senator.
The ominous war clouds that floated low over the Wisconsin political horizon have lifted, and the Progressives, after a series of quiet conferences, have ironed out threatening difficulties and agreed to present a solid front in attempting to send a La Follette again to the Senate.
Son Is Favored
Aspiring state officers who had eyed toward Washington were told bluntly that they would not expect the support of Senate Progressives who feel that for political reasons, either Mrs. La Follette or "Young Bob" as he is called here, should make the race.
The warning was sounded by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, a La Follette lieutenant in the Senate, who issues a statement today declaring that "petty jealousies and personal ambitions must be forgotten."
It was particularly directed at the officials who have quietly let drop the hint that they would not be adverse to contesting for the seat.

Child Mangled By Dog
Before Rescue Arrives

Attacked by a savage dog that leaped at his throat, the 11-year-old son of A. W. Robinson, 614 West California avenue, was badly mangled about neck and hand before he could be rescued by members of his family late yesterday.
The dog, owned by Ray W. Dille, 615 West California avenue, was seized last night by Poundmaster William Deerr and placed under observation. When the dog attempted to leap at Deerr while held in an automobile the poundmaster was forced to use a club to subdue it.
The boy, in a serious condition, is being cared for by Dr. H. M. Barnham at his home.

Mourns Loss Of Dog

Little June Lee, 3 years old of 328 North Keenilworth street, is very unhappy over the loss of her Boston Bull terrier, "Pet." An advertisement has been inserted in the classified columns of The Glendale Evening News, in hopes that "Pet" can be located and returned to his little mistress.

Burglary Suspect Is Released By Court

M. L. Cavana, arrested several days ago on a charge of suspicion of burglary in connection with the recent theft of $300 in cash from the Acacia pharmacy, Acacia and Glendale avenues, was released today following dismissal of the action by Police Judge F. H. Lowe. Judge Lowe held the evidence insufficient to lodge a charge of burglary.

paint sections being under different department heads. Made to order hardware for high class residences is a specialty of the Red Feather concern. Special arrangements with factories and foundries enables this extra service.

"Have your plastering right, and many of the troubles of the new house will be eliminated," says James Duncan, Atwater plastering contractor who maintains offices with Arthur M. Gilman at 3218 Glendale boulevard.
Plastering is one of the chief units of construction and should be applied by experts. We claim this distinction and solicit the privilege to estimate work which Atwater people may have to do. No job is too large or too small for us," said Mr. Duncan.
"We are in business in Atwater and expect to get a chance at Atwater jobs. We will demonstrate that our work is better and our prices the most reasonable, consistent with the highest quality materials."
Mr. Duncan does "patch work" day or night, whichever is the most convenient. Patch plastering is a specialty. All sorts of concrete, tile and cement work are handled also.

This concern is thoroughly familiar with building conditions in Los Angeles county, having been in this line of business here for the past fourteen years, and in Atwater since the tract was opened up by Mr. Gilman. Over fifty houses in the Atwater tract have been plastered by Mr. Duncan. Some of the larger buildings completed in Los Angeles are: The Blackstone apartments, Hotel Regency, the famous street apartments, Paden-Polton building. Work has been taken as far north as Tulare, as well as in Kingman, Ariz., and all over Southern California.

DEATHS-FUNERALS

OMAR C. LANE
Funeral services for Omar C. Lane, for thirty-five years a resident of Glendale and Burbank who died Saturday at his home, 327 Vine street, were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Grand View Memorial park. Rev. Clifford A. Cole, pastor of Central Christian church, of which the deceased was a member for many years, officiated. Mrs. Floyd Mercer sang. Pallbearers were W. M. Holeman, G. F. Bohannon, E. H. Learned, E. W. Lyon, W. B. Kirk and Dr. A. H. Rowley, fellow church members and friends.
Mr. Lane, who was 71 years of age at the time of his death, was born in the town of Lexington, Essex county, Ontario, Canada.
